

The 2014 NFL Draft is over, kids. It's time to pick a side...

The Johnny Football Hierarchy of...

Lovers

Praying for his Soul

He loves all the children of the world, even cocky loudmouths, and JFF loves Him too.

Bromance at the BCS. This guy knows a thing or two about what JFF is going through.

People Who Know Football

"I think when somebody's as instinctive as [Manziel] is, and as fast as he is, and as athletic as he is, and he's developing into a pretty good passer - I do think he has an NFL future."

~ That Nick Saban

"He's the most exciting player ever to play college football. He's a guy with an unbelievable amount of talent. He's got tremendous upside. In the right system with the right coach, he'll continue to get better."

~ Yessir! Coach Sumlin

"Oh, please. I love Johnny Football. See, the reason people won't accept Johnny Football is because Johnny Football has ghetto tendencies. I love Johnny Football."

~ Prime Time (yeah, I know, but still)

Unwashed & Undecided

LSU fans love him when he plays 'Bama, but hate him the rest of the time even though they beat him TWICE.

It's over. You won. Let it go.

More Lovers: Legions of Fans

The Browns sold 1,500 season tickets in the 12 hours after taking Manziel with the 22th pick

The Worldwide Leader had a 6.8 overnight rating - up 48% from the 2013 draft. It beat the NBA Blazers-Spurs and Heat-Nets playoffs going on at the same time. It beat the NHL playoffs. Cleveland was the No. 1 TV market for Draft Day with a 13.0 share. That's crazy.

His Friends: Cooler than Yours

This guy wore a Manziel jersey on Draft Day. Think about that.

This guy gave a shout out to Manziel in his song, Draft Day.

Um, well, yeah... still Lovers

"He's Elvis Presley." And ESPN saw an 8.0 rating when your Cowboys were on the clock.

"I don't know if I'll be too popular for this ... but I feel like now everyone hates him. He's quickly becoming my favorite player in college football."

~ Joe Flacco... now, the third-highest paid player in the NFL and still not too popular.

Aggie fans start subscribing to DirecTV Sunday Ticket. Roundtrips from IAH > CLE for the Browns / Texans game on Nov 16 start at $325 for 6PM departure (if the Mizzou game starts at 11A at Kyle Field)

Haters (gonna hate, even if no one's listening...)

Texas A&M had more First Round draft picks (3) than their entire former conference (2). t.u. had zero (0).

Thought JFF would make a great safety for the Longhorns. Definitely not QB material. For the first time since 1937, no player from UT was drafted. Ouch.

Sure, Mel Ass-wiper had JFF in his Top 10 because he didn't have the balls to admit to being a HATER. You could hear his unrestrained glee as Manziel dropped to No. 22.

If you're gnashing your teeth about the bad example that JFF sets for the children, you can kiss my white ass. It's not his job to raise your privileged spawn. That's your job. Be a fucking parent.

White People

liberal guilt-ridden Democrats sanctimonious Republicans

If you're torqued up about the fact that he listens to rap music, drives a Mercedes-Benz, celebrates with a cash out and doesn't behave like a traditional (slow, tall, white, dull) quarterback, maybe you should reexamine your family values, asshole.

Still More Lovers: The Ladies

Even Betty White likes Johnny Football! The cast from Hot in Cleveland put together a special "Welcome" message for JFF and fellow Browns first-rounder Justin Gilbert!

Who do you think helped with those ratings on Thursday? The Ladies, duh.